Conditions of the exemption:

In accordance with section 691(1) of the Work Health and Safety Regulation 2011, the regulator imposes the following conditions in relation to this exemption:

1. The exemption only applies to clearing and cleaning of in-situ pipes made from asbestos containing materials, used as part of underground sewer systems infrastructure within Queensland, by an exemption holder.
2. An exemption holder undertaking high-pressure water jetting of asbestos sewer pipe infrastructure under the terms of this exemption must carry out the work to at least the standard outlined in the High Pressure Water Jetting Asbestos Piping Safe Work Method Statement, prepared by the Queensland Water Directorate, and participate in regular audits conducted by the infrastructure owner.
3. An exemption holder must comply with the asbestos related work requirements in section 5.4 Asbestos Related Work of the Queensland How to manage and control asbestos in the workplace Code of Practice and all other asbestos related regulations and codes of practice.
4. All workers directly involved with high-pressure water jetting of asbestos sewer pipe infrastructure must complete an appropriate asbestos awareness training course prior to commencing the work. The person conducting a business or undertaking (PCBU) must ensure that information, training and instruction provided to a worker is suitable and adequate, having regard to:

- the nature of the work carried out by the worker;
- the nature of the risks associated with the work at the time the information, training or instruction is provided; and
- the control measures implemented.

5. All workers carrying out the high-pressure water jetting work must be alerted to and sign off on the required safe work procedures and be provided a ‘toolbox talk’ or briefing before carrying out this type of work.
6. All high-pressure water jetting activities must be managed by a supervisor who has completed the CPCCDE3014A Remove non-friable asbestos training course.
7. All equipment must be hosed down to decontaminate it as it is retrieved from the manhole, which includes the cutting head, hose and associated equipment.
8. An exemption holder that produces biosolids to be used for the purpose of soil conditioning must:
 - (a) ensure the requirements of section 419(5) of the Work Health and Safety Regulation 2011 are complied with, which requires that a competent person has determined the material:
 - (i) does not contain any visible asbestos containing materials (ACM) or friable asbestos; or
 - (ii) if friable asbestos is visible—does not contain more than trace levels (0.1g/kg) of asbestos determined in accordance with AS 4964:2004 (Method for the qualitative identification of asbestos in bulk samples); and
 - (b) enquire with other Queensland Government agencies and obtain the approvals necessary to lawfully use biosolids for the purpose of soil conditioning (e.g. obtaining approval from the Department of the Environment, Tourism, Science and Innovation to use biosolids as a resource under an End of Waste Code).
9. If requested by the regulator, exemption holders must provide details of the location and date of high-pressure water cleaning work to allow Workplace Health and Safety Queensland inspectors to audit compliance with the High Pressure Water Jetting Asbestos Piping Safe Work Method Statement (or other safe work method statement that includes an equivalent or higher level of control measures), conditions of the exemption and all other requirements of the Work Health and Safety Regulation 2011 and codes of practice.

Date and duration of exemption:

This exemption commences on 11 February 2025 and expires on 11 February 2030, unless amended or cancelled sooner.
