Regulatory Impact Statement for the introduction of a code of practice

The public is invited to comment on the RIS, which includes a proposal for a code of practice for electrical equipment; a revision of the current 'class of work' system to reflect the level of electrical risk present; the extending of the current requirement for safety switch protection; and the introduction of a risk based approach to managing electrical risk.

Employers, business owners, caravan park proprietors and owners of rental properties may have a particular interest in this regulatory impact statement.
